ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., MONDAY, AUGUST 12, 1912. PRICE TWO CENTS.

A HAPPY UNION OF GREAT BEAUTY AND ARTISTIC CONVENIENCE.

It has seldom been our privilege to offer a Dresser approaching so closely to the ideal as the one in the picture—to the virtue of unusual roominess is added that of superior beauty of line and exquisite graining of wood. It is a dresser that the most critical will frankly admit has no counterpart at the exceptionally low price of $22.50. Made of

Dark, Rich Mahogany

It expresses to the utmost the high ideals of some master craftsman whose thorough skill in following the designer's lines must be seen to be fully appreciated. The workmanship is superb—also the finish. Top and drawers are unusually large. It is a surprisingly good value at

SCHEPPS KEYNOTE OF THE SITUATION.

Confession Will Unravel Mystery of Murder.

East Side Being Scoured by Detectives for Harry Horowitz.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—This week promises to unravel much if not all the mystery that still surrounds the killing of Herman Rosenthal, who was shot down in front of Hotel Metropole nearly a month ago. With the coming of Sam Schepps from Hot Springs, Ark., and a possible confession from Jack Sullivan, the district attorney's office prepared itself today for new and important evidence that would corroborate the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose, that Police Lieutenant Becker instigated the murder. Schepps has already indicated that he may confess everything that he knows of the murder.

"I am the keynote of the whole situation," Schepps is quoted as saying. "If I talk it will reach a long ways."

Schepps, according to Rose, rode in the "murder car" up town and later paid the gun men for their work. The public prosecutor has already sent an officer to bring Schepps to this city and had also requested the Hot Springs officials not to turn their man over to any one without instructions from the district attorney's office. District Attorney Whitman wants his own men to see Schepps before the New York police get to him.

Detectives, hearing a report that Harry Horowitz, gun man, wanted in the Rosenthal case, was in the city, combed the East Side today in search for him.

The aldermanic investigation committee was scheduled to meet this afternoon to select its counsel. The public prosecutor's office is said to have obtained information that Becker had accounts in no less than eight banks in this city and there are indications, it was reported, that since the murder of Rosenthal several thousand dollars have been withdrawn.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty said today that he proposed to investigate the story of Sam Schepps, that the police found him in the Catskills and failed to arrest him. Dougherty said he would "break" the detectives if they were found guilty. Schepps, in his story of his flight from the Catskills, where the New York detectives were searching for the gun man, is quoted as saying: "In Sullivan county I was asleep in a gymnasium when five of the New York detectives that I knew came in and lifted the cover from me. One of them asked me who I was and grinned. I said my name was Smith and grinned right back. They went away after kindly replacing the cover. Half an hour later I was on my way to Buffalo." From the Catskills Schepps went to Buffalo, he said, and then to Hot Springs.

Max D. Steuer drove up in his automobile this morning to the West Side court prison, where "Bridgie" Webber, his client, and one of those charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, is locked up. The lawyer frankly admitted he had received an urgent telegram from Webber. As he entered the prison, he said that he did not know just what Webber wanted to talk with him about. Shortly afterwards Harford T. Marshall, counsel for Jack Sullivan, arrived. He refused to make any comment and hurried inside.

SCORES JACK ROSE.

Schepps to Tell Whitman Truth on Return to New York.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 12.—"Jack" Rose has told things unnecessary in his confession to the New York prosecutor and has tried to get me 'in bad', but I will not stand for it. When I get back to New York I mean to tell Whitman the entire truth. He can't give me the worst of it."

Thus declared Sam Schepps, arrested here for alleged complicity in the Rosenthal murder. He denied vigorously that he made a confession.

District Attorney Whitman wired Acting Mayor Pettit of Hot Springs today urging that under no circumstances should Schepps be turned over to any New York officer unless that officer is armed with credentials from the prosecutor's office. Mr. Whitman wired that a detective authorized to get Schepps extradition papers from Governor Donaghey was due in Little Rock today. He will go immediately to Hot Springs, if he gets the necessary papers, and take Schepps to New York.

Schepps seems to have lost all fear of returning to New York, but he appears anxious to discredit the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose.

Whether Sam Schepps, arrested here and held in personal custody at a hotel by a detective, has made any definite statement concerning the Rosenthal murder conspiracy, whether he will reveal possible knowledge of the missing slayers' hiding place before leaving for the metropolis, or whether he will make his statement direct to the district attorney—these are questions undetermined here today. Meanwhile Schepps appears to be enjoying three large meals per day, also the detective appears perfectly satisfied with the situation. Pending the receipt of instructions from the New York district attorney's office little is to be had direct from Schepps, although it is understood that he will make no effort to resist his return to New York.

MULAI HAFID OFF FOR FRANCE.

His Brother, the Khalif of Fez, Succeeds Him as Sultan of Morocco.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—It is officially announced today that Mulai Hafid, the Sultan of Morocco, has completed all the formalities demanded by France and that his abdication is an accomplished fact. He started for France today.

Mulai Youssef, his brother, and at present Khalif of Fez, is to be proclaimed immediately. The abdication of Mulai Hafid is voluntary. It was finally arranged between him and General Lyatuey, the French resident governor.

PORT ROUTINE THIS WEEK.

Making of Minor Repairs and Nightly Liberty from the Fleet.

Admiral Osterhaus Transfers His Flag and Receives Secretary Meyer.

As soon as the battleships came in Saturday liberty parties were sent ashore, and there were as usual many sailors in town Saturday night and Sunday, for their weekly liberty on the streets or in their regular haunts, while many went to other cities. Most of the men were due back on shipboard again this morning for the routine work, and when men were found straying around they were overhauled by the shore patrol, and if not able to show that they had an excuse for being ashore were sent to their ships.

The week will be one in port for the ships, during which there will be little but the usual routine and the making of minor repairs. There will be nightly liberty parties and at the end of the week the fleet will sail for Hampton Roads, where the ships will engage in a season of target practice, returning here in the course of two or three weeks and then preparing for the big review in New York harbor in October. This will be the grandest ever made by the navy, if possible, and that the number of ships may be the greatest ever assembled, an endeavor will be made to have all Naval Reserve craft in the parade, in addition to the active and the reserve ships. The date has not yet been definitely settled.

Sunday Admiral Osterhaus transferred his flag from the Connecticut to the Utah and the former vessel left in the afternoon for New York, for repairs to her split crank shaft.

Admiral Knight, with the Tennessee and Montana, having on board 500 apprentice seamen from the Training Station, sailed into Saturday afternoon for Philadelphia, after having remained in the bay during the absence of Admiral Osterhaus and his fleet.

The Nebraska did not go to the Boston navy yard after all, but to Rockport, and will go to Boston Wednesday. Her injuries are not so serious as reported. One plate is scarred and one compartment leaking, but is readily kept free. The examination by divers shows the scraping which her bottom received to be comparatively slight. As to the shoal, it is now reported to be no new discovery, but to be a rock which was found by a surveying party 75 years ago and at that time marked on the charts. Somehow it seems to have been left off the more recent charts and forgotten.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer left his home in Hamilton, Mass., where he has been ill with a slight attack of typhoid fever, Saturday and went to Gloucester, where the Dolphin was waiting for him and his family, to take the Secretary back to his duties in Washington. On the way along the coast the Dolphin put in here and the Secretary and Admiral Osterhaus held a conference, and later Mr. Meyer came ashore and lunched with Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle. Sunday evening the Dolphin sailed and the Secretary expects to be in good condition to resume his desk and take up the many matters which have piled up during his two months' enforced absence.

While here he talked with Admiral Osterhaus about the conduct of the summer program for the fleet, being well pleased with the work which has been done, and the coming review was also discussed.

Lieutenant Commander W. M. Hunt has been detached from the command of the Ammen and ordered to the navy yard, Philadelphia.

Lieutenant W. F. Halsey, Jr., has been detached from the receiving ship at Norfolk and ordered to command the Flusser.

Lieutenant Owen Bartlett has been detached from the Connecticut and ordered to the Patterson.

Lieutenant L. F. Welch has been detached from the Patterson and ordered to the navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H.

Lieutenant W. H. Allen has been detached from the command of the Flusser and ordered to the command of the Ammen.

Ensign M. R. Pierce has been detached from the Rhode Island and ordered to the Castine and Ensign D. A. McElduff has been detached from the Castine and ordered to the Rhode Island.

TO FLY OVER THIS CITY.

New Hydroplane in War-Game Flight From Marblehead to the Housatonic River.

In connection with the war game being played by the troops of New England and the regulars for the defense of New York, a new hydroplane for the army is scheduled to fly over this city this afternoon, from Marblehead to the Housatonic river. Lieutenants Arnold and Kirkland are in the machine and will assume to take notice of the location of the enemy as they pass along the coast in order to report conditions to the headquarters of the defense.

The aviators expect to be in the air about three hours in making the 200-miles, which will be the longest hydroplane flight ever made in this country. The orders were to begin the flight today regardless of weather, and since there is a thick fog off here it is presumed that they will fly well over the land. A close watch was kept at the various government stations for the passing, which it was figured could not be before 3 o'clock.

BOTH WINGS OF RED ARMY ADVANCE

Clash With the Blues Occurs Early in Day at Milford.

Attack Expected to End in Retreat of Brigades Under Eddy.

MANOEUVRE HEADQUARTERS, STRATFORD, Conn., Aug. 12.—A general advance of both wings of the "Red" army, which is trying to capture New York city, began this morning on the first day's actual operations in the Connecticut manoeuvre campaign. In Milford, where the picket lines were in contact all yesterday, and a number of prisoners were captured, a clash occurred early today. On the "Reds" extreme right wing, near Beaufett's bridge in Seymour, 30 miles north, a movement of a detachment of the "Blues" cavalry against the "Reds" thin line of skirmishing cavalry and infantry was the counterbalancing tactical movement. When the "Blue" cavalry moved, the provisional brigade, made up of the First and Second Connecticut regiments and the Second Maine, were sent up from their camp in Oxford to check the supposed advance.

The movements of both wings were to feel out the position of the opposing force. Excepting the two Massachusetts brigades, which were settled in camp yesterday, and the Twenty Second New York engineers, which were engaged all yesterday in mapping the territory adjacent to and east of the Housatonic river in the war area, nearly every unit in both armies was on the move this morning. This had as its objective the instruction which comes from breaking camp, marching in brigade formation on the highway, in skirmishing, and then in going into camp at a new place.

The contact of the "Reds" and "Blues" just west of Indian river, in Milford, is expected to end before tonight in a retreat of the "Blue" brigade there under Brigadier General Eddy, which is made up of the Fourteenth, Twenty-third, and Forty-seventh New York regiments.

While the advance of the "Blues" throughout the rest of their frontal line was to feel out the "Reds," the object was to concentrate forces at those points at which the "Reds" were very strong. The mobilization of the provisional "Blue" forces was at widely separated points, the base of supplies being in Danbury, the artillery southeast of there, the cavalry being at another place and the infantry greatly scattered. Across the Housatonic the "Blue" brigade under General Eddy was in a precarious position. Behind him was the unfordable Housatonic, but he held two brigades.

As soon as General Dyer, commanding the "Red" brigade which had moved out from New Haven to Tyler City Saturday, began a forward movement, early this morning, Colonel Parker, commanding the provisional cavalry brigade, was ordered to come up as a support for General Eddy, whose outposts were being driven in. The cavalry was rushed from Stillman's pond, north of Bridgeport, for four miles, and formed the left flank of the "Blue" infantry. The plan of the game here was that General Dyer's force was too strong for the "Blues," being four regiments against three.

With the material increase in the "Blues" strength by the coming up of the cavalry, the "Reds" advance was halted. Meantime the opposing forces had been edging up the river and while at the end of this section the "Blues" were in a better position than their opponents.

At Derby the cavalry evolution of Colonel Parker in Milford was met by the throwing of the "Red" cavalry into a position which would open a way for them to meet the "Blue" cavalry by way of the Huntington and Derby bridges, theoretically put out of use Saturday by the "Blues" and rebuilt by the engineers yesterday.

The aviation section was out early for practice. Lieutenant Foulois, in the Burgess-Wright machine, left at 7:30 a. m. on a reconnaissance of the lower Housatonic, carrying with him a wireless set, recording instruments and maps on which he will locate the various camps. Lieutenant Milling went up in the Wright machine, carrying Lieutenant Geiger for a trial.

Both machines went to an altitude of about 1,100 feet. Conditions were not good for observation at the start. Messages were received that Lieutenants Kirtland and Arnold would leave Marblehead during the morning in the new hydro-aeroplane and expected to make the trip to Stafford in three hours.

KEEN INTEREST IN ELECTION.

Mrs. Milton Rockefeller Candidate for Tarrytown School Trusteeship.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Keen interest is being taken here in tomorrow's special school election, in which Mrs. Ellen Milton, known as the John D. Rockefeller candidate, is a candidate for re-election. In the regular election last May the opposition succeeded in finding enough supporters to tie the vote and a special election was ordered. The opposition to Rockefeller's choice probably will be weaker this time, as Mrs. Milton's rival for the trusteeship recently sold his house here to Rockefeller and moved away.

SHIPS AT HOOK OF HOLLAND.

The Frankfurt and Barmen Arrive After Sunday's Collision.

ROTTERDAM, Holland, Aug. 12.—North German-Lloyd steamship Frankfurt, which yesterday collided with German steamer Barmen, off the Hook of Holland lightship, while on the voyage to Canada from Bremen, with 1,200 emigrants on board, entered the Hook of Holland today towed by four tugs. Of her passengers 460 were still on board, the remainder having been transferred to the Dutch steamer Juno. Immediately after the collision the Frankfurt shipped large quantities of water, but according to her officers she was in no danger of sinking.

The Barmen, which was on the way from Rotterdam for Bremen, also arrived at the Hook of Holland.

Union Hospital of Fall River Establishes Patients' Convalescent Home on Park Avenue.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The Union Hospitol of Fall River has established a Convalescent Home in this town, where a limited number of patients leaving the hospital may comfor about two weeks; and be succeeded by other former patients whose convalescence may be benefited by country life and freedom from household cares. The funds are provided by the women's board of the hospital and it is under the social service department of that institution, which has hired the cottage belonging to Mrs. Emmeline Wilcox on Park Avenue, nearly opposite "Elm Farm." It is admirably situated for the purpose, being within two or three minutes walk from the Seaconnet river and having a beautiful view. It will accommodate six guests, besides the working force. At present, Mrs. Tebbetts of the Denbision House settlement in Boston, who has volunteered to act as matron during August, is in charge. She gives instruction in various household duties to those of her guests who need them.

Upon the invitation of Miss Clarke of the scial service department of the hospital, the home was inspected last week by Misses Weatherbee of the Associated Charities, Miss Eddy of the Seaside Home and District Nursing Association and Miss Collins of the Board of Health Nursing Supervisor. Miss Brayton, daughter of Mr. Thomas E. Brayton, whose summer home is on the west shore of this town and who is president of the women's board of the hospital, arranged for a supper for the visitors, in the preparation of which the inmates took great pleasure. Everything in the establishment was found in admirable order.

Mrs. J. M. Eldredge entertained at dinner at Hill Crest Tea House Saturday evening, seven guests, four of whom later gave a delightful concert. Mrs. Eldredge invited a number to be present, 39 of whom responded. The musicale was designed especially for the pleasure of Mrs. Eldredge's mother, Mrs. Burke, who on account of lameness cannot go out for such pleasures. Most of the guests were seated on the spacious piazza.

The musicians were an Italian orchestra of four pieces—Director S. Orfeleva, mandolin; Michele Diorio, mandolin; Luigi Petorella, guitar and Domenico D. Sandro, harp— who gave the following program: Lucia de Lammermoor; Trovatore, selection; Intermezzo, Cavalleria Rusticana; La Forze del Destina, Rigoletta; Overture, Stradella; La Traviata, La Palonia, Magnolia Serenata, The Bohemian Girl, Spring Song, Madame Sherry.

On account of the heavy showers the attendance at St. Paul's Sunday morning was small. There was no sermon and the service was abbreviated. Rev. Ansan B. Howard is entertaining a friend, who was his teacher between the ages of 14 and 18, Professor Leggett of Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. James M. Estes preached at spending the week at the Smith Mills camp meeting, North Dartmouth, Mass., of which Mr. John S. Kimber of Newport is superintendent. Mr. Edward C. Faulkner and Mr. Edward B. Ayler went to the camp meeting Sunday.

Mrs. Jamese M. Estes preached at Friends' Meeting Sunday morning.

Rev. John Wadsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church preached to a small congregation Sunday morning from Psalms LXXVIII:41, and in the evening from Luke XVIII:37.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Almy of Bristol are visiting Mrs. Almy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fremont Grinnell.

Mr. George H. Foley of Fall River, leader of the Orpheus orchestra, which furnishes the music for Island Park, with his wife and family is spending two weeks here.

Mrs. George Hollister of Hartford is spending a fortnight with her parents, Captain and Mrs. Oliver G. Hicks of Bristol Ferry.

Mr. Edward W. Rodgers became exhausted while struggling with an overturned canoe at Island Park, on his way to the raft for a swim. Mr. Ernest Kniveton, who was already on the raft, swam to his assistance and succeeded in helping him on board. Later the canoe and its belongings were brought to shore.

Dr. Roland Brayton and a party from Rochester have returned home, after having been guests of Mrs. M. J. Pogg.

Miss Alice Ayler, who has been spending a fortnight in Boston with her aunt, Mrs. Robert Teamoh, returned home Saturday night, accompanied by Mr. Teamoh.

Mr. Howard Sherman is spending a part of his fortnight's vacation in Washington as guest of Mr. Alton F. Grinnell, formerly of this town.

Mr. Timothy O'Neil of Brooklyn and Mr. Peter Hampston of Fall River are guests of the Chestbrook Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitters of Taunton and their two children are spending some weeks at Bristol Ferry with Mrs. L. A. Popple.

Mrs. John McKie and her daughter Mildred of Boston are guests of Mrs. Oliver G. Hicks.

Mrs. Horace Gilmore of Boston, who is spending the summer at Bristol Ferry, has been quite sick, but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Manchester and their three daughters were guests of Mrs. Manchester's mother, Mrs. L. A. Popple, Sunday.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular Correspondence of The News.]

There was a small attendance at the Methodist Episcopal Church both afternoon and evening, in spite of the unfavorable weather. It was voted at an official board meeting to purchase a new pipe organ for the church, the present instrument being somewhat difficult to keep in condition, having been in use for a long period of years.

It rained so heavily Sunday that the morning service at St. Columba's, the Berkeley Memorial Chapel, had but a small attendance. A short service without the sermon was conducted by the rector, Rev. Latta Griswold, who has recently returned from his vacation. The organist was not present. There was an early celebration of Holy Communion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barker and their son of Providence are guests of Mr. Barker's aunt, Mrs. William V. Hart. Mr. Barker is a native of Middletown and lived here for many years. He is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Orin C. Barker of Providence.

Miss Orrel Hazard, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Richard Hease, in South Weymouth, Mass., for several weeks has returned home.

The trustees of the Newport First Beach Land Company have conveyed to Russell H. Nevins, Jr., the lot numbered 369 on Kane avenue, containing 36,178 square feet. Mr. Nevins has also purchased the lot numbered 370, containing 36,120 square feet, John W. Tuche, et. al., being the grantors. The same purchaser has taken title to the lot numbered 368, James H. Knowles being the grantor. Daniel T. Babson has sold the lot numbered 434 on Bay View avenue, containing 10,500 square feet, the purchaser being Bertha McCarthy. The adjoining lot, numbered 435, containing 10,615 square feet, has been purchased by Augustus H. Lincoln.

OFFICERS ADVANCED.

Retirement of Medical Director Gardner and Howard E. Ames Followed by Promotions.

The recent retirement of Medical Directors James F. Gardner and Howard E. Ames, U. S. N., are followed by the advancement of the following officers: Medical Inspector Philip Leach, formerly in command of the Newport Naval hospital and now in command of the naval hospital at Las Animas, Col., and Medical Inspector Lloyd Wallay Curtis, on duty at the Torpedo station to be medical directors from July 29 and August 7, respectively; Surgeons Rand Percy Crandall, attached to the receiving ship at Norfolk, Va., and formerly at the Naval Training Station, and George Tucker Smith, on duty at the Naval Station, Honolulu, to be medical inspectors; Passed Assistant Surgeons John L. Neilson, on duty in the bureau of medicine and surgery, and Frederick W. S. Dean, on duty at the New York navy yard, to the rank of surgeon.

Passed Assistant Surgeon James H. Halloway, who is on sick leave, has been advanced to the grade of surgeon, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Surgeon Morton W. Baker.

MORE GOODS IN FALL GOWNS.

[Millinery Trade Review.]

A large silk firm of New York city has heard from Paris that French fashion designers plan to increase the amount of material needed for fall garments. Fall suits, according to the report, will require at least half a yard more than those now fashionable. While the increased cost for each garment is small, the aggregate increase is expected to bring large returns to silk firms in this country. This is encouraging news for the piece goods people.

The ribbon manufacturers are comforted in the report that a well defined boom in ribbons within the next month or two is predicted by one of the largest distributors in the New York market. Despite the present vogue for laces and embroideries as dress garnitures, together with an increased demand for ribbons for hat trimmings for fall and winter wear, the millinery trade is fully expecting a free use of fancy feathers for street hats and an abundance of ostrich plumage, paradise and aigrettes for dress hats of velvet, plush, velour, plain felt, beaver or other materials.

FOUR GAMES SATURDAY.

Trojans Shut Out the Louisiana Team on Latter's Poor Play.

Broadways Turn the Tables on the Utahs, and Bankers Beat the Doctors.

In a base ball game between the Trojans and the Louisiana team Saturday Sheehan was on the rubber for the locals and held the ship team scoreless. The Trojans scored seven runs, not on hitting but on poor playing by the sailors and some daring base running which had the opposing fielders in the air. It was an exhibition of what could be done to rattle an opposing team without saying a word or doing anything not perfectly fair and sportsmanlike. Cochran pitched part of the game for Louisiana and received poor support, the Trojans making their first five runs with but a single safe hit to help. The score:

Trojans	0 0 2 4 0 1 0 0 x—7

Sunday the Cranstons, leaders of their league, were scheduled to play. They seem to be real rain makers. This was the second time they were scheduled and the second time it rained and prevented the game. The times it has rained since the first of June are few and far between, but the Cranston team has counted twice on rainy weather, and good substantial rain.

Saturday afternoon two games were played on the Civic League lot, the Broadways defeating the Utahs, 10 to 8, and the Bankers winning from the Doctors by a score of 17 to 10 in seven innings. The Broadway-Utah game was the second between the two teams, the Utahs having won a week ago by a score of 20 to 7. This was much more evenly played, the batting being hard and safe and the fielding generally good.

Byrnes pitched for the Broadways and held the sailors to nine safe hits, gave two bases on balls and struck out six. The Broadways made 11 hits, including a two-bagger and a three-bagger. Badger also struck out six and allowed four bases on balls. He was wild and was replaced by Fort in the last two innings.

The Utahs had the lead until the sixth inning, when the Broadways made four runs on three bases on balls, a hit batsman, and a two-base hit by Jemail. The Utahs tried hard, but could not overcome the lead. There were two double plays in the latter part of the game, and these, with timely hitting by Jemail, Johnson and Sullivan, were the features. The score by innings is as follows:

Broadways	2 0 0 3 0 4 1 0 x—10
Utahs	3 0 0 1 2 1 0 1 0 0— 8

Batteries—Byrnes and Dillon; Badger, Fort and Hollis. Two-base hits—Jemail; Badger, Fort. Three-base hit—Johnson. Struck out—By Byrnes 6, by Badger 6, by Fort 1. Bases on balls—By Byrnes 2, by Badger 4. Hit by pitched ball—Hollis; Johnson. Double plays—O' Sullivan-Speers-Reynolds; Fort-Nolha-Kelly.

The Bankers-Doctors game was played immediately following. Neither side was able to put in a full team and filled in with men from the field. It was an interesting game, and at times ludicrous, but there were some first-class plays. The feature was the batting of Sherman of the Bankers, who made four hits in as many times at bat, the first three two-baggers, while the fourth might have been stretched into a two-base hit if the runner had not become "winded" by his previous efforts. He however, stole second and scored a fourth run.

Dr. Farnum was not very effective. He gave many bases on balls and was hit hard, but struck out some of the less experienced batters, who thought they must hit at everything. Martin caught a good game and Keenan and Luther played well at short stop and second base. Speers pitched well and Sherman was a good backstop for the Bankers. Mahoney tried hard at second, but was not equal to the emergencies, which came rather too hard for him. The line-up:

Bankers—Sherman, c.; Speers, p.; Callahan and White, 1b.; Mahoney, 2b.; Chase, 3b.; White and Callahan, s. s.; Jurgens, l. f.; Taylor, c. f.; Noonan, r. f.

Doctors—Martin, c.; Farnum, p.; Butler, 1b.; Luther, 2b.; Conway, 3b.; Keenan, s. s.; Sullivan, l. f.; Coggeshall, c. f.; Clark, r. f.

No one kept the individual score, as there was no room on the borrowed sheet for the errors.

BY A SCORE OF 8 TO 4½.

Cooperstown Defeats Strong Bryn Mawr Quartet—Great Neck Wins From Point Judith.

Cooperstown captured the third round of the junior national championship at Point Judith Saturday afternoon, defeating the strong Bryn Mawr quartet by a score of 8 to 4½. The game was without handicaps. The Cooperstown team made its best showing in the second, fourth and fifth periods. Up to the beginning of the sixth period Bryn Mawr had made but one goal and had lost half of that on Brown's foul.

It looked very dubious for Bryn Mawr to make any showing at all, but in the sixth period, after Cooperstown had made a long unsuccessful attempt for a goal, Strawbridge drove the ball across the field, placing it nicely, and Harrison cut in the goal.

Again in the seventh period Strawbridge carried the ball down and Harrison made the goal. Strawbridge repeated again and Snowden scored. Just after the gong sounded Brown made a pretty stroke to the goal, which gave the team three in one period. They sent Bryn Mawr's stock up, but they were too far behind to recover lost ground.

The eighth and final period was a hard contest, all the Bryn Mawr members playing for a goal and missing it twice. Just a few seconds before the period was over Beadleston, with Rumsey had been the leaders for Cooperstown, scored a goal.

Following this came a special match between Great Neck and Point Judith, in which the former, after receiving 8 goals, handicap, won by a score of 14 to 4½. The handicap proved too great for Point Judith. On even terms Great Neck would have won, having scored 6 goals to their opponents' 4½.

Besides these two games, there were the special matches on the second field. In the first, a four-period event, Myopia defeated the Wonderers, 7 to 1. In the second, a six-period match, Back River won over Point Judith, 5½, 10 to 2½.

The line-up for the junior championship match was as follows:

Cooperstown—P. S. Von Stade, C. C. Rumsey, C. P. Beadleston, F. H. Prince, Jr.

Bryn Mawr—Alexander Brown, H. W. Harrison, R. P. Strawbridge, C. H. Snowden.

Summary—Cooperstown, goals made by Rumsey 4, Von Stade 2, Beadleston 1, Prince 1; total 8. Bryn Mawr 7, goals made by Brown 2, Harrison 2, Snowden 1; total 5, less ½ for penalties; net 4½.

REV. MR. HILL'S RESIGNATION.

Former Rector of Emmanuel Church to Give Up Active Work at Mt. Airy, Pa.

Rev. Simeon C. Hill, rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, Mt. Airy, Pa., for nearly 38 years, and formerly of Emmanuel Church in this city, has sent his resignation to his vestry, to take effect October 1. He is now in Europe, where he will remain until the latter part of September. His resignation came as a surprise to many of his friends, though he sent his resignation immediately before sailing. He told several friends that it had long been his intention to give up active work at the approach of his seventieth year. At the present time, Mr. Hill is sojourning in the vicinity of the famous Melrose Abbey, near Edinburgh. He was recently reported to be seriously ill, but has recovered.

The Germantown News says: "During his long pastorate in the Mt. Airy Church Mr. Hill has superintended many important improvements. The church was enlarged during his ministry. The rector was highly esteemed by the congregation, and many deplore his retirement. In addition to his work in Mt. Airy Mr. Hill has been active for many years as chairman of one of the diocesan committees on work among the deaf mutes. He reported the progress of this work at the diocesan convention for many years, and his earnest appeals were potent in securing adequate support for the cause from Episcopal laymen. Much of the excellent work accomplished at All Souls' Church for the deaf was under his direction. Mr. Hill was also active in the Sunday school and missionary work of his parish.

PERSONALS.

....Harry K. Thaw has been assigned to the duties of a clerk in the supply distributing department of the state asylum for criminal insane, at Matteawan, N. J.

....Bishop Peter Trimble Rowe, missionary Bishop of Alaska for the Protestant Episcopal Church, has declined to accept the position of coadjutor bishop to the diocese of Southern Ohio, to which he was elected at the diocesan convention in May.

....Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, arrived home Saturday night after a tour around the world. With him were his wife, his granddaughter, Miss Ruth Eliot, and his secretary, Robert Pierce, who made the tour with the former Harvard head.

....Dr. Joseph White of the United States Public Heath and Marine Hospital Service has been asked by Mayor Fitzgerald to go to Boston as chairman of the board of health, or to act as an expert in the health department as long as the government would care to spare him. This is the third offer of the health board position which Mayor Fitzgerald has made to men of national reputation.

....Julius Rosenwald of Chicago made birthday gifts Sunday amounting to $687,500, being 50 years old. Charity and education received the entire sum. Mr. Rosenwald is a leading merchant. Half a million dollars was split evenly between the University of Chicago and the Associated Charities. Dr. Booker T. Washington received $25,000 for the improvement and elevation of schools for negroes.

GRATITUDE OF A CONTRIBUTOR.

[Richard M. Hunt, in Satire]

Dear Editor: How can I ever thank
You for that courteous rejection blank!
I had a feeling from the very first
That you accepted just the very worst;
And, do you know? it cheered me quite a heap
To learn my stuff was far too good to keep!
The moment after I had mailed that verse
I realized it should have been much worse.
For two whole weary nights I lay awake
For fear that you would keep it—by mistake;
And I had even planned to send a wire,
But couldn't quite pronounce the word, "Sat-ire."
Ah, me! How did I hope, how did I pray,
Smoke forty cigarettes in half a day,
Drink many potent drinks, nor cease to curse,—
And all for fear you'd buy my treasured verse!
But you've returned again the precious "stuff,"
And, really, I can't thank you, sir, enough.
P. S.—Today, I'm sending something cheap,
In hopes you'll find it bad enough to keep.

FANCIES.

Grace—See this necktie I worked for Fred?

Helen—You ought to see the one he worked me for.

"How do you hold on to your cook while you are away on your vacation—by paying her a bonus to come back?"

"No; by not paying her what I owe her."

"So you are living at a hotel?"

"Yes. The cook got so haughty and domineering that we decided to simply walk out of the house and show her that we could be as independent as anybody."

His wife she bought hair tonic,
And she put it on his head;
His hair grew long and curly,
With a pretty shade of red.
But when she viewed the difference
It filled my heart with pain;
She rose up in distraction,
And pulled it out again.

"I have faith in the plain people," yelled the politician.

"You can't stir up any sentiment in favor of reciprocity here," howled a little man in one of the rear seats.—[Chicago Record-Herald.

THE PROGRESSIVE PLATFORM.

There is much in the Progressive platform which is sound enough, but it is not new, either in theory or practice. A sense of the obligations of the state to the weaker members of the community is no discovery of Roosevelt; it has been expressed in considerable legislation by the general and the state governments.

Among recent federal enactments, take the white phosphorus law, to protect working people; take the safety appliance legislation for interstate railways; take the children's bureau. Labor bureaus have long existed under the general and the state governments. The first employers' liability law enacted by Congress in regard to interstate railroads having been found to be unconstitutional, that body passed another which has withstood the scrutiny of the courts. Laws regulating the hours of employment have been passed by many states besides Massachusetts and the federal government limits work in the navy yards and other shops to eight hours, while a recent measure would apply that to all contract work done for the government. These are merely instances; there is much more legislation of the same sort. The Roosevelt platform would break down all barriers between the general and the state governments and procure national legislation where the states are competent to act and many of them have acted. What is there new about the Progressive demands?

There are few specific demands. The graded inheritance tax and the income tax are mentioned, but they do not distinguish its progression from other parties. The single tax is not proposed. Old-age pensions are not proposed. Few specific measures are, but there is the demand that Congress shall do the work of state legislatures and a general atmosphere of state socialism, all through the document. There is enough legislation by both the older parties in the interest of farmers, workingmen, women and children, the public health and food to make it incomprehensible that any considerable number of persons should suppose it necessary to create a new party, break down the federal system, tear up constitutions and destroy the independence of the judiciary in order to secure sufficient protection for the weaker members of the community.

BOY SCOUTS AS STREET CLEANERS.

The Boy Scouts of New York have been given a new line of work, in the removal of rubbish and waste paper from the streets in the congested districts. This may not seem at first thought a very appropriate task for the Scouts, but it is found to be such when the service and its results are regarded in the proper light. Since the health of the people is dependent to a large degree upon the cleanliness of the streets and private premises, the removal of refuse is a task of much importance, and a service which so intimately affects the public interests is worth the while of any association of lads. It was a happy thought, therefore, to set the Boy Scouts at this work of cleaning the city in the interest of the public health, and the energy and spirit which they put into it showed their willingness to be of service, while their success proved that they can accomplish valuable results when their efforts are turned in the right direction.

This was not the first time Boy Scouts have been used in this way. They have, indeed, been employed here in a similar effort to free the city from refuse which threatened the health and well being of the people. It was, however, a more systematic movement, thoroughly organized and confined to that body of boys. Therefore it was a more distinctively Boy Scout scheme, and all the credit for the success which attended it belongs to that organization. It has pointed the way toward accomplishing a twofold object, each part of which needs attention, while both will work for the advantage of those interested. It gives an opportunity for the Boy Scouts to make themselves useful in another way and affords a new method of cleaning the streets of a city which will be more effective than some which have been tried, and help to solve what is a serious problem in municipal housekeeping.

Some persons in New York objected to the use of the Boy Scouts for this purpose, on the ground that it would be harmful to them and to the city, because it would show these boys that the government is inefficient and cannot do the work which properly belongs to it, but must avail itself of the assistance of others. This may be one of the results of the plan, but it is not at all certain that it will not be a lesson which will be useful to these boys. If they learn in this manner that the city administration is not what it should be they will be likely to feel, not that the task is hopeless or that the government cannot be effective, but rather that it ought to be improved, and they will be the more willing to do what they can as citizens to bring about a change in administration which will make it more efficient. They certainly will learn more about the city government, what it is supposed to do and what it really does, than they would in any other way, and that is valuable knowledge to be possessed by men or boys.

It is hence a good idea to give the lads, particularly these Boy Scouts, who are organized for the purpose of making themselves useful in any way they can, a practical lesson in the work of the city departments, and it would be well if some other tasks along that line could be devised which will give them an insight into the way other branches of the municipal government are managed. To make the boys interested in the administration of the affairs of the city is an important part of their education, and to awaken that interest in some such practical way as this of cleaning the streets is still more desirable. There can be no doubt that the lesson will be remembered after these boys have reached manhood and begun to take an active part in the management of municipal affairs. Cleaning the streets may seem to be a small matter, but it possesses the possibility of large results for the boys and for the city.

CARNEGIE ON TAXATION.

In an address in Scotland Andrew Carnegie said that "England had established the law first proclaimed by Adam Smith, that every subject should contribute to the support of the government in proportion to the income he enjoys under the protection of the state." He continued: "This just taxation the millionaires of the dominions (or colonies) and the United States have thus far escaped, but their day is coming. The hoards of millionaires should be so treated, not as a punishment but for their good, because it is just and justice alone insures general contentment."

This may refer to the income tax or to inheritance taxes. The latter are established in many of our states, probably in most, and in some of them the tax is so graded that it makes very high percentages on large properties. It rests upon the ground that what passes to the heir was never earned by him and the heir is not burdened if a large share of what is a free gift is taken in transit.

The income tax rests upon another basis. Incomes are derived from labor or from invested capital. The theory of taxation, and especially of those who are most eager to tax the rich, is that taxation should fall as lightly as possible upon labor, though the Wisconsin income tax reaches salaries and a large portion of wages. The property from which income is derived is already taxed, so far as it can be reached, and if a good deal of personal escapes it will certainly be no easier to reach incomes. The rich do pay in proportion to their income, because they pay in proportion to the amount of their property.

In England there is a reason for the income tax which does not exist here. There are local taxes on real estate there, but the general land tax for national purposes is merely nominal. There are great incomes from land which do not pay their share of the national expenses and this is a justification for the income tax. Here the property tax is universal, and the man who owns a great deal of property pays proportionately. On personal he may beat the law, but he will do that more easily with the income tax, which, added to the property tax, would make double taxation. In England and Germany there are increasing complaints of evasion of the income tax.

Governor Woodrow Wilson comes out in favor of local option and against making the question an issue between political parties. He believes the matter of prohibition is merely a social problem, and says: "I am a thorough believer in local self-government, and believe that every self-governing community which constitutes a social unit should have the right to control the matter of the regulation or of the withdrawing of licenses." His stand on this question is expected to assist the Democrats in the gubernatorial campaign in Maine, in which the liquor question is a prominent issue.

At the meeting of the Ohio Republican state central committee came the parting of the ways between the Taft and Roosevelt men, eight members, including the chairman and secretary, resigning, and it is expected that a complete Progressive state ticket will be placed in the field at once. This means that the Democrats will have a good chance of winning in Ohio in November. The Taft men have nominated General R. B. Brown as the Republican candidate for governor, to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the refusal of Judge E. B. Dillon to make the contest.

A Scottish surgeon, who claims to have been able to make a boy grow seven inches in four months, advances the theory that there need be no more dwarfs. The stature of men and women is practically controlled, he says, by two glands in the human body. If the thyroid gland is lacking persons may remain dwarfs, but this has been obviated by the use of thyroid extract, the active principle, taken from the thyroid gland of a sheep. Nevertheless, there is ancient and good authority for the belief that no man, by taking thought, can add one cubit to his stature.

The announcement of the selection of Secretary of State Knox to attend the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito as the representative of the United States is received by all the Japanese newspapers with expressions of sincere appreciation, showing the cordial official relations between the two countries in spite of the objection of Japan to allowing American ships free passage through the Panama canal and the efforts to prevent a Japanese naval station in Mexico.

Colonel Roosevelt's distinction between Southern and Northern negroes is a little too fine to suit the colored men generally, and his bid for their votes is not likely to meet with a very favorable response at the polls.

"FOREHANDEDNESS."

Lost Art Necessary for Reducing Cost of Living and Supplying Variety of Food.

[Boston Transcript.]

"Forehanded" used to be a term commonly heard in New England to signify the possession of commendable thrift and unusual foresight. When applied to people who were wont to make ample preparation for the winter and other seasons when fresh fruits and vegetables were not to be had, it was a signally appropriate term. With the approach of winter the cellars of the houses a generation or two ago would fill up with an imposing array of jellies, spiced fruits, preserves and pickles, which were in themselves a testimony to the forehandedness of the housewives and an earnest of good cheer for the long, hard winters. In those days the number of jars of delectable things in the cellar only vied with the different kinds of cake displayed on the table when the minister came to tea.

Mothers then took pride in their ability to keep the family table provided with good things, in most cases the product of their own skill. Many a housewife in those days would have felt eternally disgraced if she allowed her family to enter upon the winter season without a barrel of cider apple sauce, a hundred weight of dried apples and a plentiful store of pickles and preserved fruits and jellies. These things went a long way toward setting out the oftentime meagrely furnished table.

No doubt the suggestion of such things will bring a superior smile to the face of many a modern housewife, and yet it is this which gives point to the expression so often heard, that "nothing tastes as it did when I was a boy." In these days of cold storage, not to mention the family refrigerator in every kitchen, the temptation is well-nigh irresistible to rely upon the grocer not only for the preserves and relishes which add so much to the pleasures of the table, but for the daily supply in small quantities of bread and butter, meat and vegetables.

It is an axiom in trade circles, that the buyer of small quantities is at a great disadvantage, and yet it has come to be almost the universal custom to order only what is needed from day to day, thus adding materially to the cost of nearly everything that enters into the daily scheme of living. Lack of knowledge and lack of preparation, singly or in combination, are important factors in increasing the cost of supplying the table with plenty of wholesome and appetizing food. The result is that the average household pays more than it needs to for its food, and is not nearly so well served in quality or quantity.

It is not enough to leave the orders for the day with the butcher or the grocer, and then depend upon the more or less competent help in the kitchen to see that food comes to the table properly cooked and served. A good dinner needs to be "personally conducted" to arrive at the highest point of efficiency. If this supervision could be made also to cover the purchasing of the dinner as well as its cooking and serving, much would be gained. Then the housewife would be better able to judge as to what articles of food were abnormally expensive, and still give ample variety to the menu while avoiding excessive cost.

THE INDICTMENT OF NEWPORT.

Admiral Chadwick Invited to Complete His Task by Writing a Second Letter.

To the Editor of The News:

Sir: You have presented in your issue of Friday an able and interesting letter by Admiral Chadwick under the caption: "In Defense of Newport." In your editorial columns you suggest the use of the same as an advertisement of the city. But, surely, second thought leads to the conclusion that the article covers only half the ground, is inadequate to the purpose you indicate and calls for a second effort.

In glowing terms, with the enthusiasm of one in love with his subject, the gallant author depicts the beauties and glories of our famous island. Billows of incomparable lawn reach out to touch and rival the emerald sheen of the circumambient sea. Stately palaces adorn the avenue; while, in pleasing contrast, the architectural simplicity of the Reading Room invites comment. On every hand the prospect pleases and through these shady vistas we are permitted to picture a goodly company of cultivated men and women disposing of their affluent leisure.

But how, one asks, do we, the favored of fortune, occupy our leisure? What elevated and elegant works are we free to prosecute? We listen, and upon the disappointed ear fall the accents of faint praise. One scans the letter o'er and o'er and the one form of activity he finds mentioned is this: We dine. We drive as far as five miles—a possible ten is suggested—and at the end of the journey—we dine.

Surely this is not all. An observant public will ask: What else? Seated in the loveliest spot of earth, endowed with riches almost unlimited, apples of gold on pictures of silver, freed from the carking cares of manual toil and the withering anxieties of penury, to what lofty pursuits do these happy islanders address themselves? The only answer I find is: They are amiable and they dine. Of positive effort almost nothing more.

The top hat, symbol of a spacious and glittering superficiality, has been resolutely discarded. Our hats, like our shoes, are constructed of a soft material. The world will justly applaud this reform. It is a step in the right direction. But, thirsting for information and inspiration, they will ask: What more? To stop here is to let the mind fall back on thoughts of the Biblical character who wore purple and fine linen and fared sumptuously every day.

We must go on. We must lift the veil on literary, artistic, philanthropic, philosophic Newport. Surely these aspects of our existence are as worthy to excite the applause of the multitude as clipped lawns and hedges and—dinner tables. But, of all this, so far, nothing. We are allowed to see a toiling fringe of the proletariat, the patient Portuguese and the daring Greek plowing land and sea to produce for us the lobster and the asparagus, twin necessities of a cultivated existence. But of the great intellectual exertions of the gifted central body of our population, not a word. Obviously this is but a prelude and the real Defense is to follow.

One is eager to see it. A wealth of material lies ready to the writer's hand, does it not? The greatest philosophic essay in the English tongue was produced here, and since Berkeley gathered round him the famous group of scholars that drew auditors and admirers from distant scenes has not Newport been a place of light and leading? Why are these things hidden?

In a cryptic and disquieting paragraph the writer admits that Shakespeare were he to visit New York, might not be received into the best circles. In this respect, however, Newport contrasts favorably with over-selective Gotham. We are led to feel it quite possible that the society column of a Newport paper might contain the item: "Registered at the Casino, William Shakespeare." Possible it is, for we are really quite democratic; charmingly so, in some ways.

One hundred and ten years ago Mr. Wordsworth, being in London, wrote a sonnet in which occurred certain suggestive words about plain living and high thinking. In similar vein let Higher Newport be set forth.

Let the gifted author celebrate the lofty initiative of our citizens of great wealth and power, a citizenship never content to let things drift and lapse, but so eager for municipal betterment that our city government has become the admiration and despair of rival communities far and near.

Let him assure the man of artistic temperament that our wealth is lavished in the patronage of the arts, and the lover of music, for example, may hear the best recitals any month in the year.

Let him make it plain that the conversation a visitor hears will run, not upon the price of beef or of bonds, but upon affairs of state and achievements of scholarship.

Let him show the nice and critical stranger that we are not given over to a rash and intemperate pursuit of pleasure, but that we keep sane hours and restrict our amusements to six days in the week, holding the Sabbath sacred for rest and refreshment of body and soul.

Having, in a second letter, addressed himself to such tasks as these, our worthy author shall have composed, not merely a Defense of Newport, but a rounded and symmetrical delineation at once convincing to the reason and satisfying to the soul. Then shall the mouth of criticism be stopped and our island gleam with its proper effulgence like a star of the ocean.

REFUSE TO WEAR SKIRTS.

Women Threaten Boycott Unless Portuguese Governor of Inhambano Rescinds Order.

The local Portuguese governor of Inhambane has been forced to rescind his recent order that the native women of that section wear skirts. The edict aroused tremendous opposition among the women of the surrounding country, who bring eggs and vegetables into the village for sale. They declared their intention of boycotting the town unless the governor should withdraw the decree.

Many of the townsmen also announced that they would move to another community where skirts are regarded as superfluous. Impressed by the unexpected volume of adverse opinion, the governor surrendered.

ADULTERATED SILKS.

One of the simplest tests for silk is to take two or three square inches and apply a light to it. Pure silk will burn quickly and leave only a tiny bit of ash. The adulterated samples, on the other hand, will burn very slowly, and in place of the ash there will be a black or brown substance. This substance consists of the chemicals which may fuse, but which do not burn in the ordinary sense of the word. The most common adulterants of silks are tin, zinc, antimony, Epsom salts, gum arabic, glucose, potato starch and magnesia. The amount of this weighing, as it is called, varies, but no article is pure silk which contains any of these constituents.

Although the price may be lower in the beginning these adulterated silks are by all odds the most expensive in the end, because they will not give the wear that a genuine silk fabric will give, in fact so heavily weighted are some of them that they practically fall to pieces before the dress has been worn a few weeks. In these days of constant change of fashion, one may argue that one does not object if a dress lasts only a season, but it does not pay to make up many of these adulterated silk, and, at least, all of us desire to receive the full value in merchandise of our money.

UNPLEASANT SUNDAY AT BEACH.

Many Present, However, for Opening Concert of American Band, Regulars Bathers on Hand.

The beach, like other places, had a disagreeable Sunday and the anticipated crowds were not there. The excursion business was poor and the local attendance but what a pleasant day it would have made it. There were, nevertheless, much larger crowds present for the opening concerts of the American band engagement than one would have expected on such a day. The band has for years been popular wherever it has played, and apparently is ever it has played, and apparently is to be so here. The regular bathers, who care principally for the water and little for the sands and the crowds, were enjoying themselves as usual.

The raft at the main section of the beach broke away from its mooring, and this morning was found high and dry on the sand. There are other signs on the beach of heavy weather at sea for the past few days, for boxes, logs of trees and small refuse are strewn all along the shore. Better evidence than this of heavy weather were the powerful undertow and high tide today. Very few people dared venture out beyond the waist line, and women were not at all safe out that far.

TORPEDO LOST IN PRACTICE.

Battleship Delaware Finds $5,000 Machine of War in Flukes of Big Patent Anchor.

While engaged in practice last week the battleship Delaware lost one of her expensive torpedoes. A diving party was called away, and for hours the bottom about where the torpedo was supposed to have buried itself in the mud was gone over. Finally, it was given up as a lost torpedo and the entry was duly made on the log.

The order was given for the fleet to get under way and the Delaware, with the rest of the ships, came to short stay and then the big patent anchor was raised. As usual, as it came to the surface there was a stream of water over the side to wash off the mud and other matter from the bottom which might adhere to it. As the shank came out of water it was discovered that some large article was held in the grip of the flukes, and this was a moment later made out to be a torpedo. "Avast heaving" was instantly called out, lest the torpedo be joggled out of the possibly insecure hold of the anchor. A boat was lowered and carefully lines were secured to the $5,000 machine of war, and it was soon on deck. As soon as its number could be taken it was found to be the identical torpedo which had been recorded as lost.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Miss Margaret M. Baker will leave Tuesday for Westerly, to be guest for a week of Miss Dorothy Perry.

—Rev. George W. Quick, D. D., and family of Greenville, S. C., formerly of this city, are at the Perry House.

—Mr. J. Powell Cozzens and Mr. Anthony Schnitt entertained dinner parties at The New Cliffs Sunday evening.

—Today's registers at the Casino include Oliver Iselin, George H. Hull, Jr., Coleman Drayton, Jay Coogan and E. B. Riggs.

—Rev. C. A. Stenhouse of Edgarton, Mass., formerly pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, is at the Fairhaven.

—Sixty barrels of scup were shipped today, and there was nothing else in the fishing line. Some mackerel were landed here Sunday.

—The Salvation Army has placed a stand and is soliciting subscriptions at the postoffice corner for a free outing for poor children.

—Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hull, Jr., are guests of Mrs. Hull's parents, General and Mrs. J. Fred Person, at their residence on Bellevue avenue.

—Misses Bessie and Ruth Tarpey left Saturday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tarpey, at Morning Star ranch, San Simon, Ariz.

—The steam roller which has been working on Broadway in the re-surfacing of the pavement is now engaged in making repairs to Bull street.

—Cadet Fritz Lindh, who is spending his furlough here, with his parents, met with an injury to his arm recently, which necessitates carrying it in a sling.

—Mr. Henry J. Whitehouse, son of the late W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, is at "Eastbourne Lodge," Rhode Island avenue, for the remainder of the month.

—The police officers have been instructed to renew their efforts to keep the streets clean, but thus far they do not appear to have located a case with which they could go into court and prosecute.

—The ladies' night of the Newport Yacht Club, originally arranged for this evening, when it was supposed the yacht fleet would be here, has been shifted to Wednesday, after the race for the Astor cups.

—Dr. and Mrs. N. H. Greene and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Richardson of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Swain of Spring Valley, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Stokes and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Byrne of New York, Charles F. Ross of Brattleboro, Vt., W. C. Cawley of Philadelphia and A. H. Clarke of East Orange, N. J., are registered at the Perry House.

—The yachting world in this section is still waiting for returns from the race to Block Island, which started from here Saturday. Mr. Lorillard, who went across in his launch for a trial, reported on his return that he heard the Evelyn had finished first, an hour ahead of cathoat Mildent which was second. No figures are available.

—The commands attached to Forts Adams and Greble, which have been at Fort Trumbull, New London, the past two weeks for target practice, returned to their posts Saturday night and report having made excellent records at the guns. The other commands, which remained at home to guard the coast, will go shortly to the same place for similar work.

—Steamer Warwick brought a large excursion from East Greenwich today, under the auspices of Maschachaug Council, Royal Arcanum, of that place. The excursionists went generally to the beach, where they at once became liberal patrons of the merry-go-round, the lunch counters and the restaurant. They will return this afternoon.

—Mr. R. R. Barker, Jr., has taken a lease of the Moriarty place on Green avenue and has already taken possession. This property has been but little occupied for several years, and recently Mrs. Moriarty, who inherited it from her father, the late W. P. Sheffield, has laid out considerable money in improvements, so that it is now one of the most attractive residences along the Boulevard.

WILL OF MRS. G. H. KELLEY.

Many Bequests to Newport and Methodist Institutions.

Residence Given to First Church and Residue to Home for the Aged.

The will of Mrs. George H. Kelley disposes of a considerable property and includes, besides a large number of small and personal bequests, in the form of money, articles of furniture and other mementoes, liberal provision for several institutions in this city and others connected with the various work of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The house on Church street, in which she resided is given to the First Methodist Episcopal Church, $500 cash to the local Young Men's Christian Association, to the Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for the prosecution of offenders in Newport, and to the Rhode Island Woman's Temperance Society for temperance work in this city; $1,000 to the Board of Education, Freedman's Aid and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church; $1,000 to the Conference Claimants' Fund of the New England Southern Conference, $600 to the New England Sabbath Protective League, $300 to the Newport Teachers' Retirement Fund, and to the organist and quartet choir of the First Methodist Episcopal Church $5 each.

She gives to her three step-children $600 each, with all furniture not otherwise mentioned, and to William Loftus certain land in Jamestown.

The rest and residue of the estate is bequeathed to the Home for the Aged on Washington street in this city.

William Loftus is named as executor of the will, the main provisions of which are as follows:

First—I give and bequeath to the Island Cemetery Company of said Newport the sum of $200, the income thereof to be used in the care of the lot in the Island cemetery, in said Newport, where my husband is buried, and where I request my executor to have me laid.

Second—I give and bequeath to said city of Newport the sum of $200, the income thereof to be used in the care of the lot in the Old City cemetery, in said Newport, near the Farewell Street entrance, where my parents are buried. Said lot contains a shaft with the names of my father and grandfather, John E. Greene and Rev. Records Heath, inscribed upon it.

Third—I give the old clock, standing in my sitting room, to my cousin, George W. Greene; I give the Greene coat of arms to Joseph Greene, both of Macedon, N. Y. I give the portraits of my great-uncle, Captain Barney Earle and of Rhoda Cahone, his wife, to my cousins Matilda and Lucy Jacobs of Aurora, N. Y.; also to Matilda and Lucy Jacobs, a set of teaspoons marked "A. E. G."

Fourth—Disposes of certain articles of furniture, etc.

Fifth—I give and bequeath to Anna C. Seabury George H. Kelley and John Lewis Kelley, children of my said husband, $800 each, in token of my love for their dear father and for them.

Sixth—I give all my clothing not otherwise disposed of to Mary W. Russell, now living in this city; also the graven portrait of my said Henry B. Heath, deceased.

Seventh—I give and devise to the trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of said Newport my house situated at No. 109 Church street in said Newport, and the lot of land on which it stands, to be held by them and kept in repair, and after paying insurance and taxes thereon to use the net income arising from renting the two tenements in the same, which has been $300 a year each, towards supporting the Methodist Episcopal Church on Marlborough street and the Sunday School connected therewith, for repairing the church and parsonage connected therewith, or in any other way in which it can be best used for the benefit of said church. I authorize and empower said corporation, if the majority of the trustees thereof think it best, to sell and convey said real estate, and to deposit or otherwise invest the proceeds of sale, as an endowment fund for the support of said church, the income only thereof to be annually used for the purposes above specified.

Eighth—I give and bequeath to the Young Men's Christian Association of Newport the sum of $500 towards carrying on their work.

Ninth—I give and bequeath to the Board of Education, Freedman's Aid and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America the sum of $1,000, to be used for the work of said Methodist Episcopal Church among the colored people of the South, as administered by said board.

Tenth—I give and bequeath to the trustees of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church aforesaid the sum of $1,000, the annual income thereof to be used for the Conference claimants of said Conference.

Eleventh—I have made no mention of the Foreign and Home Missionary societies, because I have provided therefore in my lifetime.

Twelfth—To the Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for the prosecution of offenders in said Newport, and to the Rhode Island Woman's Temperance Society, for temperance work in said Newport, I give and bequeath each the sum of $500.

Thirteenth—I give and bequeath to the New England Sabbath Protective League, to be paid by my executor to the treasurer of said League, the sum of $800, the same to be applied to the general uses of said League under the direction of its board of directors.

Fourteenth—To the Teachers' Retirement Fund of said Newport I give and bequeath the sum of $300.

Fifteenth—I give and bequeath to Rev. Joseph Cooper, at his time, 1912, the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, $100; to the pastor of said church at the time of my decease, $50; to the organist and quartet choir at that time $5 each, $25 in all; to Christian Carlson and wife, now of Rockland, Ill., $25 each; to Miss Annie Bachelier, Miss Jennie Bailey, Miss Edith Popple, Miss Mary W. Russell, Mrs. Bertha Davenport, Mrs. Bessie Curtis and Miss Rebecca Davison, $10 each; to Mrs. Sarah Wilks, Mrs. Gertrude Thurston, Mrs. Annie Paddock, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Miss Ellen Cornell and Miss Tacey Brown, $20 each; to Stewart Haynes, a barber on Spring street, $10. But if either of the above mentioned in article 15 shall die before me, then the legacy given in this paragraph shall lapse.

Sixteenth—I give and bequeath to the Home for the Aged, situated on the Point in this city, the sum of $300, with the provision that if Miss Mary W. Russell, now living on Marlborough street in this city, so desires, subject to the rules of admission of said Home, other than the payment of $300, she may become an inmate during her life.

Seventeenth—Disposes of a few personal mementoes.

Eighteenth—I give and bequeath all bedding, pictures and furniture that are not hereinbefore mentioned to the said Anna C. Seabury, George H. Kelley and John Lewis Kelley.

Nineteenth—I give and devise to the said William Loftus all my right, title and interest in and to all that certain tract of land on Narragansett avenue in the town of Jamestown, Rhode Island, which was formerly a portion of the Greene farm, so called, to have and to hold the same to the said William Loftus and his heirs forever.

Twentieth—All the rest and residue and remainder of my estate, of every kind whatsoever, whether acquired before or after the execution hereof, I give and bequeath to the Home for the Aged, situated on the Point, in said Newport.

Twenty-first—If the property left by me at my death shall be insufficient to pay in full all of the legacies hereinbefore mentioned, then the legacies bequeathed in paragraph 15 of this will shall proportionally abate, as I desire that the other legacies be paid in full, if practicable.

Twenty-second—I hereby charge all of the above mentioned legacies upon my estate, whether real or personal.

Twenty-third—I hereby authorize and empower the executor thereof to sell and convey any real estate belonging to me (at the time of my death), other than that which is hereinbefore specifically devised, either at public or private sale, as to him may seem best, in order to carry out the foregoing provisions of this will.

Twenty-fourth—I nominate and appoint the said William Loftus to be the executor of this my last will and testament and hereby exempt him from giving any bond as such.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-fourth day of April, 1912.

THREE FUNERALS.

Services for Andrew Johnson, James L. Sullivan and Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Kelley.

The funeral of Andrew Johnson, for many years gardener for Mrs. David King, took place Sunday afternoon in the Swedish Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. Fridolf Soderman, officiating. There was quite a representative gathering, testifying in more respects than one to the esteem in which the deceased was held by those who knew him. The pastor made reference to the sterling qualities of the deceased as he had found them, typifying him as belonging to a class of men always active, strictly sober and righteous in all his dealings. He was a great lover of his home and of late years had devoted himself entirely to this and his work. Following the sketch by the pastor, Rev. Carl G. Westerdahl conducted a short service in English and the choir sang, "Nearer, My God, to Thee", a favorite selection of the deceased. Among those present was a delegation of Odd Fellows.

Andrew Johnson was born in the province of Shone, Sweden, February 1 1851, and came to this country in 1871, settling in Newport in 1872. He married, February 19, 1876, Anna Sophie Ericsson, who survives besides two children. A brother lives here and a sister in Sweden. He joined the Swedish Methodist Episcopal church in 1876 and had been a member since.

The funeral of James L. Sullivan took place from St. Joseph's Church Sunday afternoon, Rev. Father O'Laughlin officiating. The burial was in St. Columba cemetery, the bearers being John, Michael and Patrick L. Sullivan, nephews of the deceased; Michael Breen, a cousin; Daniel O'Connell and Francis Conners. The deceased had been in the employ of the government at the Naval Training station for 20 years, and during the last 10 years was foreman of laborers. He leaves a widow and four children.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Kelley took place this afternoon, at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, after prayer at the late residence of the deceased on Church street. The service was enducted by Rev. Joseph Cooper, the pastor, Mrs. Sadie Bailey King and Miss Cora Gosling sang. The interment was in the Island cemetery, the bearers being J. W. Horton, T. T. Pitman, Henry C. Bachelier and Edward O. Riggs.

MOSTLY JAMESTOWN VIEWS.

Exhibition of the Water Colors of Admiral Davis at the Art Association.

An exhibition of water colors by Rear Admiral Charles H. Davis was opened today at the gallery of the Art Association of Newport on Church street. Thirty-four paintings are shown, the views being mostly near Jamestown, the summer home of Admiral Davis, with a few of the subjects taken from scenes in Havana and Rio de Janeiro.

Admiral Davis's landscapes, with an occasional view of the sea, are among his strongest works. Those attracting particular attention were a landscape, The West Shore, Jamestown, which is strong in sentiment and happily handled; The Cottrell Farm, which has for its subject the newly mown hay, with a stack in the middle distance and the old farmhouse in the background, a beautiful piece of atmosphere; The Cliffs on the West Shore, strong in composition, with an effect in perspective particularly pleasing. Another picture of interest is On The Edge of the Bank, which shows a stone wall with goldenrod and a glimpse of the Bay. Admiral Davis's style is perhaps marked with detail, and in all his works the contrasts in light effects are good.

Tea was served this afternoon, when many friends as well as people interested in the art life of Newport were present.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Hackmen's Protective Association Arranges for Clambake at Its Annual Meeting.

The Hackmen's Protective Association held its annual meeting Sunday evening to elect officers, arrange for its annual clambake and transact other business. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—James H. Boyle,
Vice President—Peter Geraghty.
Secretary—Stephen S. Carr.
Treasurer—Charles Minkler.

The following committee was appointed to arrange for the annual bake: Hugh P. Brady, William Stacy, Patrick Coffey, Edward Hayes, Charles Minkler, John Cronan, Stephen S. Carr, John Nagle, E. Vinli, John Sweeney, William J. Sullivan, Joseph Fallon, James Killian M. J. Murphy, Charles Mailey, Patrick Howard. The bake will be held at the beach and it is proposed to exceed all former entertainments given by the Association.

During the meeting ex-Mayor Frederick P. Garrettson, who is an honorary member, spoke of the good the organization has done and of the condition of the streets.

THE SALE OF THE GRAY HOUSE.

The sale of the residence of Mrs. John Clinton Gray will afford an opportunity for some one to secure a fine summer or all-the-year-round home. There is a commodious house in good order, finished in hardwood, with numerous rooms, baths and all details complete, and an exceptionally fine library. The grounds are large, with fine trees and shrubs, and there is a large stable or garage with apartment above and every detail of the best.

EAR SPECIALISTS MEET.

International Congress of Otologists Opens in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Five hundred physicians, specialists in ear diseases, college professors and scientists met here today at the opening session of the ninth annual International Congress of Otologists. Plans to devise means for the abolition of loud and unnecessary noise, particularly in large cities, is an important matter before the ear experts.

WINS SINGLES TITLES.

McLoughlin Out-Plays Williams in Hard Match in New York Tennis Tournament.

Maurice E. McLoughlin, the Californian, who shared with T. C. Bundy the championship of the New York State tennis tournament Friday, brought the tournament to a conclusion Saturday by winning the singles title for the second year in succession. He defeated R. N. Williams, the Pennsylvania state and national clay court champion, after five hard sets at 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4. The match was one of the hardest of McLoughlin's career, for his young opponent played him almost to a standstill. He cleanly out-played and out-manoeuvred him at the net. Williams's placed shots were marvelous and he had the gallery of 2,000 spectators with him because of his courage and sportsmanship.

An analysis of the points shows how closely Williams played McLoughlin and how he out-played the Californian in some phases of the game. Williams earned 56 points by placements, to 31 by McLoughlin; netted 32 balls, to McLoughlin's 31; drove out of court 44 times, to McLoughlin's 42; had 12 aces on services, to McLoughlin's 15, and made 21 double faults, to McLoughlin's 5.

This week the leading tennis players will be at Southampton, Long Island, for the annual tournament and the final contests before the national tournament here next week. William A. Larned, the seven times holder of the national championship, has been endeavoring to come into condition on the courts at Southampton during the last 10 days. Rheumatism has bothered him considerably, but he believes that if he can regain his form in the Southampton tournament he will be in proper condition to undertake the task of playing through the grind of the all-comers at Newport.

MR. OLMSTED TAKES THE DOLAN CUP.

Seventeen members of the Newport Golf Club competed Saturday in an 18-hole handicap for a cup given by Mr. Clarence W. Dolan. The match was won by A. H. Olmsted, the scores of the leading players being as follows:

	Gross	H'dcap	Net.
A. H. Olmsted	99	20	79
Rev. Roderick Terry,	87	7	80
Dr. R. E. Moore	89	8	81
Miss Maude Wetmore	95	14	81

Others in the contest were Miss Anna Sands, Mrs. Eugene Hale, Jr., Miss Margaret H. Rusk, Stanley Mortimer, Hugh L. Willoughby, Jr., Henry R. Taylor, J. Norman deR. Whitehouse, William Gammell, T. Suffern Taller, Augustus Jay, J. F. A. Clarke, A. H. Morton and W. K. Brice.

CLAMBAKE CLUB OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

At the annual meeting of the Newport Clam Bake Club, Saturday the officers were re-elected, as follows:

PUBLICITY END OF CAMPAIGN.

Washington Correspondents to be "Me Behind the Guns."

Ostrich Farming in Arizona—Joe Cannon's Obituary— T. R. "Up Against It."

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—"Men behind the guns" to quite a number will be from the ranks of Washington newspaper men. I refer to those who prepare the full page broadsides and paper pellets with which the voters are to be bombarded during the political campaign. For a long time it has been the aim of political campaign managers to secure the services of prominent Washington correspondents to furnish publicity.

At Republican headquarters David S. Barry will be in charge, assisted by John P. Ryan. Barry is connected with the Providence Journal and Ryan with the San Francisco Post. At the Democratic headquarters Thomas J. Pence of the Raleigh News and Observer, Frank Lord of the Hearst news service and R. W. Woolley, all Washington men, are dishing up the daily political gossip of headquarters. The Progressive party publicity is in charge of Oscar King Davis, also a well known Washington correspondent.

These men with a corps of assistants are constantly grinding out copy, "making news," so to speak, for the papers supporting the different candidates. They write stories of the day; they prepare political articles; they handle delicate questions of publicity; they see that burning thoughts of politicians are put in the proper shape for readers, and, more than anything else, they fix up the matter that the politicians want put before the people in such attractive and readable form that editors like to print it.

It is rather interesting to note that the Democratic headquarters in New York are located directly over the rooms so long occupied by the Republican state committee of New York. In these rooms are to be found the men working industriously for the election of Wilson and Marshall, while the echoes of the old times come rumbling up from the space where Tom Platt and Ben Odell so long held sway. "Amen corner," a favorite nook established by Tom Platt, is no more, but many newspaper men visiting Democratic headquarters during the next few months will recall that they are treading upon ground made politically historical by reason of the location for years of Republicans in the old Fifth Avenue Hotel.

In a newspaper office not far from Washington there is a neatly prepared document labeled, "Obituary notice of Joseph G. Gannon; not to be used until he is dead." I am told that it has been on hand for many years. And if they could see him in action in the House even now the editors would conclude that it will be many years before they will use that notice.

Congressman Hayden of Arizona has introduced a bill providing an appropriation of $5,000 for experiments in feeding and breeding the ostrich. It is to be expended under direction of the bureau of animal industry of the Agricultural Department. This classifies the ostrich as belonging to agriculture, and further it establishes the fact, Congressionally speaking, that ostrich farming is quite an important industry in Arizona. It may be said in passing that the ostrich is protected, as there is a tariff on ostrich feathers, not so much because it is an infant industry as because such feathers have been considered a luxury.

Admirers of Governor Wilson often quote his expression that "guilt is personal." Senator Kenyon is trying very hard to get his bill through amending the anti-trust act so as to strike out the punishment by fines and make those who disobey the law punished by imprisonment. The Iowa Senator says that as long as fines only are imposed there will not be much hesitancy in violating the anti-trust laws, but if the men who are responsible for such violations should be sent to prison it would do much to make the law effective. The "guilt is personal" assertion may be often quoted during the campaign.

Whoever passes along the corridor on the south side of the Senate chamber cannot help but think of that slang expression, "Up against it." Backed right up against one of the screen windows of the Republican cloak room is the statue bust of T. R. It is true he is leaning forward toward the admiring throngs of sightseers that daily pass that way and has his back turned on the United States Senate. But even so, he has not much advantage over the Senate, for most of the Senators have their backs turned toward Roosevelt these days. No one has yet hung a bull moose emblem on this statue.

American Association of Park Superintendents Meet in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Park superintendents from all over the United States gathered here today to attend the fourteenth annual convention of the American Association of Park Superintendents. Questions relating to park supervision and the best means of making playgrounds attractive are among the subjects for discussion by the members. Various parks in and around Boston will be inspected and school children will take part in exhibition games and athletics on local playgrounds.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Hapiness It Would Bring to Newport Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains often come from weak kidneys,

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys,

Many residents of this vicinity endorse them.

Miss Jane Fanning, 276 High St., Bristol, R. I., says: "I am pleased to confirm all I said in 1908 when I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I consider them a remedy that lives up to all the claims made for it. Doan's Kidney Pills proved very beneficial."

The above is not an isolated case. Miss Fanning is only one of many in this vicinity who have gratefully endorsed Doan's. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Miss Fanning had. 50c. all stores. SCALP ITCHED TERRIBLY
"One evening while combing my hair, I noticed a few brown crutchlike spots on my scalp and, of course, I thought it was only a little dust that had settled there during the week. So I washed my hair thoroughly but I saw that they wouldn't come out. Then at the end of the next week I washed my hair again, and to my astonishment I saw not only those few but many more had come. Then my head became worse and worse, and my scalp started to itch terribly, so that I could not sleep nor keep from scratching my head. The crutchlike places later opened and made sores which bled, and they also itched something terrible. I tried many remedies but none helped and instead they made my head worse. This condition of my scalp kept up for a month, and then one day I met a friend and she advised me to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. In two weeks I was rid completely of this trouble, through the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I am never without them, for they are my most highly valued friends." (Signed) Miss Alva Gustafson, 677 Second ave., New York City, May 17, 1911.
Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. K, Boston.

TO THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Captain Joseph Irish's Grand Cross of Naval Merit Bequeathed by His Widow.

In the probate court this morning the will of Phebe Irish was proved and letters testamentary thereon were granted to John Ireys. Notice was waived and letters of administration on the estate of Annie M. Dowd were granted to Martin F. Reddy.

In the will of Mrs. Irish there is one bequest of historical interest, as she gives to the Newport Historical Society the Grand Cross of Naval Merit which the King of Spain presented to her husband, at that time Captain Joseph Irish of the revenue marine service, in recognition of his services in saving Spanish sailors during the time he commanded the old Moccasin in these waters. Having no children to whom to leave the cross, Mrs. Irish thought it would be in place in the custody of the Newport Historical Society, where it can be seen by many who did not know it existed.

THE VISIT OF THE YACHTS.

lightening and the yachts, or some of them, could be seen. Then it settled down thick again.

Shortly after 10 the sun began to show through and gradually the Torpedo Station was disclosed to Newport eyes. At 10:30 the sun burned a hole through the fog and things took on a different aspect. A minute afterwards a gun from the flagship boomed out a signal to the racers. A yawl of the M. class had already begun to make sail and was the first of the big fleet under sail. Some others had taken off sail covers as soon as the sun showed promise of breaking, and when at 10:45 two guns sounded from the flagship many of the yachts already had sails up and others were hoisting them. The small craft began going out first, taking less time to hoist sail. All were on board, waiting for the signal that the race was on, and there seemed no delay anywhere.

By 11:30 the harbor was well cleared of sailing craft. A few stragglers remained, but generally the boats were in for the run, or the start anyway. A large number of the steamers, including all the big ones, were also out. The Narada was the first of the big steam yachts to be under way.

ANOTHER WET SUNDAY.

Jupiter Pluvius Gives Best Display in Some Time and Humidity Was Great.

Again Newport had a rainy Sunday. This seems to be the favorite day for rain of late, and this was the best display of what Jupiter Pluvius could do which had been seen in some time. It came at a time when it could perhaps be appreciated to the fullest, just when many were going to church. It was according to the old rule; it rained on the just and unjust, equally on those who were out for clambakes in the country, where there was no protection other than that which the skies afforded, and on the many who attended church and had to take it when it was coming down hardest and there was the least space between drops.

Those who attended services beginning at 10:30 to 11 had some credit chalked up to them for persevering despite the downpour, for it was coming down for fair—and for a deluge—about that time. It may have seemed to have rained hardest about 11, but those who went to the 10:30 services will dispute this; it appeared as though it could not rain any harder that what they encountered.

The main shower lasted more than an hour and was followed by minor ones. Some places fared even worse than did Newport, for the second shower was a real deluge in some places. The Water Works gauge recorded .60 of an inch, and those who were out in it agree that the gauge is modest in its measure.

Throughout the day the humidity was great and at 6 o'clock it was up to 90. The humidity and the fog were still strong today, the fog having lasted all night and being still in good working condition this morning. Shortly after 10 the sun began to burn through the fog and at 10:30 was shining—and perhaps it did not feel hot when Old Sol got in his work. The thermometer reading had been pretty high right along, but while it felt close it did not seem really hot until the sun came out.

JOHN H. BRYER.

Death of Well Known Business Man and Descendant of Old-Time Newport Family.

Mr. John H. Bryer, a well known business man and a descendant of one of the old-time Newport families, died this morning at the summer home of his son-in-law, Mr. Henry H. Lawton, in Jamestown. He had been ill for some months, since last spring, rather seriously, and for some time had been so sick that he had to be constantly cared for, so that at the end death was not unexpected. He leaves a widow, who was Miss Dawley, and two daughters, Mrs. H. H. Lawton and Mrs. W. R. Howard.

The deceased was a son of the late Peleg Bryer, who for many years kept a grocery store at 24 Broad street, corner of Crop street, where Remigio Pasqualetti now runs a fruit store. After his death, which was about 1869, the store was for a while conducted by his son, who later went into the cigar business and has since been in other businesses as long as he was able to keep about.

DEFEAT OFFICERS' TEAM.

Mianetuck Club's Lawn Tennis Players Win Four Matches in Singles and Both Doubles.

The lawn tennis team of the Mianetuck Club defeated a team of officers from the Training and Torpedo stations Saturday, winning four of the six matches in singles and both of the doubles.

In the singles H. G. Simmons defeated Lieutenant Frederick V. McNair, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2; Surgeon Kent C. Melhorn defeated R. Wallace Peckham, 6-4, 6-4; George H. Draper defeated Paymaster William M. Hughes, 7-9, 6-1, 6-4; Surgeon W. D. Owens defeated H. Howland Sherman, 1-6, 6-1, 6-3; Charles Beck defeated Lieutenant Commander Rufus Z. Johnston, 6-3, 6-0, and Charles L. Sherman defeated Surgeon Robert C. Bachmann, 6-3, 6-0.

In the doubles H. G. Simmons and R. W. Peckham defeated Surgeons Melhorn and Bachmann, 6-4, 6-4, and Charles Beck and J. S. Brown, Jr., defeated Lieutenant Commander Johnston and Lieutenant McNair, 8-6, 10-5.

POLICE NOTES.

Sunday's record at the police station included four cases of drunkenness, three of whom paid. A man for assault paid $10 and costs, and one for sleeping out was placed on probation.

This morning's included six crap shooters, seized in a raid at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association Sunday. They paid $5 and costs each. One sailor, who butted in and was sent out of the station house, used such language outside that he was run in also, and paid the same. Thomas Acton was arraigned on two warrants, charging that he sold or suffered to be sold liquors without a license. He pleaded not guilty and was held for trial next Friday on both warrants.

The police struck an unlicensed place Sunday. In a lot of the Gibbs estate on Bath road a bag was discovered, partly hidden under hay. It contained 31 pint bottles of whiskey, which means that they were full. Where they came from is a mystery to the police. If they were stolen their loss has not been reported; if they were hidden they were not hidden well.

A dog was reported as struck by the 9 o'clock train this morning at Fourth and Poplar streets, and Officer Kane was sent to put the animal out of misery.

Steam yacht Waturus and schooner Constellation anchored in the east harbor Saturday, instead of with the rest of the New York Yacht Club fleet at Newport. Others of the fleet to visit Jamestown waters Saturday and Sunday were the Osceola, Kajeruna, Allegro and Wilrose.

One of the Utah's launches lost its wheel this morning, just as it was backing out from the landing stage at Ferry wharf, and was towed back to the ship. The wheel had apparently become loose on the shaft, as it dropped off without apparent cause. An effort is being made to recover the lost wheel by dragging.

Among those who spent Sunday with friends and relatives on the island were Mr. Nicholas Carr, Miss Carr, Mr. Elisha Watson and Miss Susie Brooks of Providence.

Mr. Job W. Tefft who has been visiting his father, Mr. E. N. Tefft, on Cole street, left last evening for his home in Washington.

The ball room of the new Casino was again crowded Saturday evening and dancing was continued until a late hour.

Miss Caperton and Miss Beatty came over Saturday for the Casino hop.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dorrence of Houston, Texas, motored to Watch Hill for the day Sunday.

Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Judge motored over for the day from Narragansett Pier this morning.

Misses Maud Martin, Elinor Morgan and Marguerite Brittor have been spending a few days with Mrs. David Barry.

Mr. Sam Rosengarten of Philadelphia is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rosengarten.

10—Stocks opened generally strong, with fractional advances in all of the active issues and numerous specialties. Dealings in Steel were fairly extensive, with an initial sale of 5,000 shares at a gain of ⅜. Trading was active, with a wide distribution of issues.

11—Further advances were scored in the first hour, Canadian Pacific making a new record. Louisville & Nashville was up 3 points and general Chemical 10.

Noon—The brilliant prospects held by last week's crop report were made the basis of a further rise in stocks today. Trading was active and broad, but the market leaders were not especially prominent. Canadian Pacific advanced to a new record price; shares of the Southern roads, particularly Southern Railway, were strong. Relative backwardness in Harrimans was partly attributed to pending Panama Canal legislation. Apart from General Chemical which rose ten points various specialties, including Cans, Smelting, Colorado Fuel and American Tobacco rose 1 to almost four points. Bonds were irregular. Money on call, steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 5 to 5½ per cent. Exchanges, $186,971,451; balances, $10,371,815.

SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones Give Dance at "Sherwood"—Dinners and Luncheons.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones gave a dance at "Sherwood" Saturday evening, following a dinner. There was a large number of guests at the latter, and a much greater company for the dance. A large pavilion had been erected on the lawn adjoining the house, where the dancing took place. This pavilion was brilliantly illuminated with arches of electric lights covered with silk mulle in various soft colors. The grounds were also illuminated.

Dinners were given by Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg, Mrs. LeRoy King and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss at their summer residences, and Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James entertained on steam yacht Aloha. There were also dinners by Captain William L. Rodgers at the Naval War College, by Commander and Mrs. George W. Williams at the Torpedo Station and by Paymaster and Mrs. T. S. O'Leary at the Naval Training Station.

Luncheons were given by Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin at "Snug Harbor," by Mrs. Stuart Duncan at "Bonniecrest," and by Mrs. Henry S. Redmond on steam yacht Margaret. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan entertained the guests on steam yacht Corsair—Mrs. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon and Dr. Markoe—at the Graves Point Fishing Club. Mrs. Eugene S. Reynal gave a children's party at the Thorn villa.

In the evening Mrs. Benjamin Thaw entertained at "Beachmound" to celebrate the nineteenth anniversary of her son, Mr. William Thaw.

Mrs. J. Fred Pierson entertained at her cottage Sunday afternoon, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., gave a luncheon at "Villa Rosa" and Mrs. Reginald Norman entertained at "Black Point Farm."

Mr. Henry Walters gave a luncheon on steam yacht Narada and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry entertained on steam yacht Sultana. Mrs. Henry S. Redmond had a large party on steam yacht Margaret, her guests including Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Sturgis, Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. R. Horace Gallatin, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer, Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Haggin, Mrs. Burke-Roche, Miss Lota Robinson, Miss Lydia Redmond and Messrs. Henry Clews, Henry F. Eldridge, Franklin A. Plummer, Thomas Kearney, Charles Hayden, Harry S. Black and J. Philip Benkard.

Dinners were given Sunday evening by Mr. Robert L. Gammell at his cottage on the Cliffs, by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Reynal at the Thorn cottage and by Mr. Egerton L. Winthrop at his residence on Bellevue avenue. Commodore C. Ledyard Blair entertained a large party at dinner on flagship Diana, his guests including several former commodores of the New York Yacht Club.

Mrs. Richard T. Wilson will give a ball Thursday evening, August 22, for Miss Beatrice Whitehouse, at the Wilson cottage on Narragansett avenue. Dinners will be given by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes preceding the ball.

NEWPORT DOGS AMONG WINNERS

Boston Bull, Cocker Spaniel and Toy Animal Classes Take Prizes at Casino.

The dog show at the Casino Theatre was continued Saturday until the early evening, attracting a good attendance during the afternoon. The judges had a busy and full day, several of them continuing their labors until nearly the closing hour. Many Newport dogs were among the winners, particularly in the Boston bull, cocker spaniel, and toy dog classes.

For Boston bulls Dr. P. E. Clark, the Spearhead Kennels, the Ayrault Kennels, James Grant, J. B. Geraghty, A. Christensen, Miss Helen W. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Bleel, Timothy J. Sullivan, Mrs. Alfred Tuckerman, Mrs. Julian McCarthy Little and Patrick C. Boyle took prizes.

In the cocker spaniel classes the Pen Craig Kennels (Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster) won several first, second and special prizes. Miss Harriet Terry, John W. Gibson and Dr. G. D. Ramsay, also took several prizes. The Pen Craig dog Newport President was the chief winner in the class, having seven awards.

Among the toy dogs the Elm Court Kennels (Mrs. Burke-Roche) entries won all the class and special prizes. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz's poodles, Mrs. P. A. Clark's toy dogs, Henry F. Tubley's toy Boston terriers, H. D. Auchincloss's Griffon Brux and Pekingese, Mrs. Philip Caswell's English spaniels, Mrs. P. H. Powell's and Mrs. M. A. Van Beuren's Pekingese, Mrs. W. Storrs Wells and Mrs. T. A. Lawson's Japanese spaniels, and Miss Isabel Benjamin's entries were also winners.

Fox terriers exhibited by Jack and Helen Gardiner, Mrs. William H. Mayer, Miss Henrietta Thaw, Miss Ethel King, Miss Edyth Deacon and Raymond Belmont won prizes. Miss Lillian Anderson and Mrs. George H. Benjamin had prize winners in the skye terrier classes, Miss Ethel King won in the Pomeranian classes. Mr. Walter Biddle took first for greyhounds, William Sargent Kendall three firsts and a special for Irish wolfhounds. Thomas B. Congdon was first in the cocker spaniel class, Raymond Belmont's entries in the classes for beagle hounds won five firsts and two specials, Thomas J. Gibson's Chow Chow took first in the novice class and Joseph B Wiseman's Chow Chow received a prize in the limit class.

In the bull terrier classes prizes were awarded to dogs exhibited by John A. Dono, Mrs. Julian McCarty Little, Jack K. Campbell, Elm Court Kennels, George H. Proud, Thomas L. Gifford and Hugh S. Mickle. The Sachtleben and the estate of W. C. Dulles and Mrs. R. L. Beeckman in the Scotch terrier classes.

UNEXPECTEDLY LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Good Gathering, Despite Other Attractions, and People Loath to Leave.

Reds by More Brilliant and Consistent Work Beat the Whites at Polo.

After the big game Friday when it seemed as if every one was there, and owing to the attractions of the dog show, the yachts and other matters, it was expected that the attendance at polo would not be large Saturday. Still, Conrad's orchestra was on hand, tea was served, all preparations were made to have things right, and the people came. It was an unexpectedly large gathering and things had a social look, not only within the enclosure but without, where there was a tangle of carriages and automobiles which would have seemed hopeless to one who did not know that the drivers could extricate their vehicles.

When the match was over, it having been agreed to play only six periods instead of the usual eight, eevry one was surprised. No one was prepared to go home. Teas were being served on the piazza, the lawn and in automobiles, and there was a buzz of conversation which showed there was no intention of quitting just then. They did not quit, for the polo players had come up from the saddling paddock and been congratulated on their work long before there was any material diminution of the people within the enclosure.

Weather conditions were more favorable than Friday, the breeze being less penetrating, and consequently the lookers-on felt more comfortable. The field as usual was in fine form and good speed and safe riding were possible.

The sides were changed from the card, owing to the non-appearance of Mr. Hazard, and for two periods Mr. Loew took the place of Mr. Horstmann, of the German legation, on the White side, giving way to Mr. Horstmann when he arrived. Handicaps were printed, but the teams played on the flat.

As was expected by some, the Reds —their official title was Vagrants— won. Their forward work was more brilliant and their back work strong. While Mr. Horstmann did his best, he could not move around as fast as Mr. Loew or Mr. Burden, though he did good work when he was able to reach the ball, and scored once. The Whites did some clever playing, but their work did not hold as consistently as that of the Reds. Mr. Morgan and Mr. Reynal were especially strong on the offense and were well assisted by Mr. Morgan Belmont. For the Whites, Mr. Rawlins worked hard and Mr. August Belmont surprised his friends by his fast riding and good hitting, the youngsters having nothing on him on some of his cuts. Mr. Cowdin also worked hard, but the Whites did not have the sustained carrying power of the Reds and lost often when they looked sure to score.

The scoring was about all done in the fourth and fifth periods. The goal in the sixth was a beauty, a backhand clip which drove the ball right between the posts just as prettily as Mr. Waterbury did the same trick the day before.

The line-up and summary:

Vagrants.	Crusaders.
M. Belmont	A. Belmont
E. S. Reynal	J. C. Cowdin
P. D. Morgan, Jr.	J. A. Rawlins
A. S. Burden	W. G. Loew and A. C. Herstmann

Referee—Mr. J. M. Waterbury, Jr.

Period and Goal.	Side.	Made by.	Time.
1-1	No score
2-1	Vagrants	Mr. Morgan	1:50
	Safety by Mr. Morgan.
3-2	Crusaders	Mr. Rawlins	1:35
4-3	Vagrants	Mr. Reynal	:20
4	Vagrants	Mr. Morgan	1:30
5	Vagrants	Mr. Morgan	1:20
5-6	Crusaders	Mr. Horstmann	2:45
7	Vagrants	Mr. Reynal	1:00
8	Crusaders	Mr. Rawlins	1:10
	Safety Mr. Cowdin
6-10	Vagrants	Mr. Morgan	3:25

Vagrants scored 7 goals, lost ¾ on safety; net 6¼. Crusaders scored 3 goals, lost ¾ on safety; net 2¼.

There will be some polo at the Westchester Club grounds Tuesday, though just who will play is not yet known. There are available Messrs. August Belmont, Foxhall P. Keene, Lawrence Waterbury, William A. Hazard, A. C. Hortsmann and J. A. Rawlins, with Mr. Balding, and it is expected that one or two players from the Pier will be over to fill out. There ought to be some good polo with these in the line-up, however they are grouped, and th grouping will aim to make the sides as even as possible.

The Kansas City team, which was scheduled to play here Saturday, is now billed to play at Narragansett Pier again Tuesday.

TO SUGGEST A SITE.

Improvement Association Appoints a Committee on New Police Station.

At the weekly meeting of the executive committee of the Newport Improvement Association, Saturday, the chairman, F. P. Garrettson, reported on the results of the conference of a committee with Mayor Boyle regarding litter on the streets, and of the executive committee with a representative of the New England Steamboat Company regarding the condition of affairs at the landing of the Wickford Line boat. The condition of the police station was discussed at length and a committee, consisting of John Thompson Spencer, Guam M. Hutton, and Henry A. C. Taylor, was appointed to investigate and suggest a site for a new building. Thomas J. Murphy spoke at length on the subject of the police station.

The question of poles for electric wires was also discussed and the action of the mayor and aldermen commended, and it was voted to send to the mayor a letter of thanks for his action in this respect. It was also voted to send a resolution to the Board of Aldermen, requesting them to grant no more permits for the erection of poles and the stringing of wires in the streets and along public property in the city limits.

Carriers of the Daily News are forbidden to roll or twist papers and throw them upon premises; are not allowed to have other boys with them without permission and have no papers to sell call 722 or 123.

THE VISIT OF THE YACHTS.

Lively Scenes in Port Saturday Night, and Sunday Despite the Weather.

Boats Dress Ship in the Rain and Fog Lifts for the Night Illumination.

The New York Yacht Club fleet, which arrived here Saturday afternoon from New Haven on its annual cruise, remained over Sunday, dressing ship during the day and illuminating in the evening, and left late this morning to continue the cruise to Vineyard Haven. Tuesday the yachts will return here, ending the cruise, and will remain Wednesday and Thursday, having the race for the Astor cups Wednesday and that for the King's cup Thursday.

The steam yachts, which began to arrive early in the day, and the racing craft, about 2 o'clock, continued to come into the harbor until there was a fleet of about 100—steam yachts, large and small schooners—sloops, and power boats—flying the red, white and blue burgee of the New York Yacht Club. The larger boats were anchored in Brenton's cove, a few outside Goat island, and the others in the lower harbor, leaving the upper part free for steamboats and the numerous launches.

In the run from New London to Newport Saturday Morton F. Plant's Elena won the Rear Commodore's cup for schooners of the first division, and the cup for second-division schooners was taken by Harold S. Vanderbilt's Vagrant. Mr. Pynchon's Istalena captured the Rear Commodore's cup for sloops of the first division, and H. S. Duell's Rowdy, which has won everything in her class since the cruise started from Glen Cove, took the Rear Commodore's cup for sloops of the second division.

The Sea Fox led the Endymion by less than a minute when they finished, and the Muriel, Charles Smithers, had only a two-minute lead over Demarest Lloyd's Princess in class D for schooners. The Taormina, W. S. Eaton, which was the third boat in this class, was four minutes ahead of the Princess. Mr. Harold Vanderbilt's Vagrant led Mr. George W. Scott's Mildal by eight minutes at the finish.

The Istalena was three minutes ahead of the Aurora, at the home line and beat the Winsome by about six minutes.

In the class L sloop class Robert Treat Paine's Shimna finished two minutes ahead of the Avenger, H. L. Maxwell, and sloops Medora, H. G. S. Noble, and Dorelia II. George L. Batchelder, ended their race four minutes apart, with the Medora the winner.

The Gardenia, A. E. Orr, beat yawl Phantom, E. S. Booth, by one minute in a special race for sloops and yawls, and there was only three minutes between H. S. Duell's Rowdy and J. P. Morman, Jr.'s Paryne when they went, with rails under, across the home finish line in the class for New York thirties, with the Rowdy in the lead.

Shortly after the arrival of the fleet small boats began to come ashore and the yacht club landing became at once a busy scene, with boats coming for fresh provisions, and bringing and taking guests. The landing was also a lively place in the evening, carriages and automobiles being driven to and fro in an almost continuous procession.

Sunday was a day of rest on the yachts, and the heavy showers of the morning made it unusually quiet. At 8 o'clock the craft dressed ship with bunting in rainbow fashion over the mastheads, making a pretty showing, which was enjoyed by many who went to the wharves to see it. During the afternoon there was more movement in the harbor, many owners entertaining on board and others coming ashore to take luncheon in the city. In the early evening there were numerous dinners on board, guests from several yachts uniting, and others coming from ashore.

The Fort Adams band gave a concert on King Park from 8 to 10 o'clock. The thick fog of the early evening made things disagreeable, and at one time it was thought the illumination would be postponed. Shortly before 9 the fog lifted and at 8:50 three rockets were set off from flagship Diana, the signal for the illumination. Promptly at 9 the steam and power yachts blazed forth in light. Some were illuminated in colored effects, others only in white lights; some with the deck only outlined, some with the hull marked out and others with lines of lights over the mast heads. Several used their search lights and others burned red and white fire. It was a pretty sight. The fog gave an unusual appearance to the yachts farther away, their lights being only dimly seen from shore, while those in the inner harbor shone out brightly. The illumination lasted an hour and shortly after 10 o'clock only the numerous small lights, which alone made a pretty picture, could be seen.

Even when the rain was falling Sunday morning the harbor had an animated appearance, with what must have been thousands of tiny signal and other flags with which the yachts were dressed. These came down promptly at sunset, and the anchor and other lights then gave a display which made the harbor look well filled, as indeed it was. Later the wind had shifted to the southwest and things looked much better. Then came a slight drizzle, followed by a fog, and when the time for the illumination of the yachts was at hand it was a question if there would be any. The New York boat came around the island just before the signal went up, and the fog at that time was so dense that from The News office observatory only her high lights could be seen, and it was not until the steamer was nearly at Long wharf that the interior illumination could be discerned. Then the fog seemed to lift as if by arrangement between the yachtsmen and the spectators, and when the time for the illumination was at hand the air was fairly clear. Immediately after the signal went up it became quite clear and so remained during the time of the illumination.

From The News office 13 steam yachts were counted with general illumination of electric lights, either rainbow fashion or along the deck. There were others which had other devices, a number burned colored lights and some used their searchlights. The air was not exactly as clear as could be desired, but was so much better than any one had hoped that it was appreciated by those who were out to view the display. The white lights had a trifle on the red and blue ones, the latter especially showing dimly in the distance, due to the heavy air.

The fog shut down again and the bells and whistles became busy. They were still busy at 8 this morning, when the gun sounded for colors. At that time the view from The News observatory took in the clock and flagstaff on the Government Landing, but did not reach anything which looked like water. Later about 9, there was some

Sale of the Belmont Land Near Almy's Pond for More Than Assessed Value.

This season's third auction sale of property within the summer residence district took place Saturday afternoon, and the land brought more than its assessed value. The property sold was some of Mrs. Alva E. Belmont's extensive holdings and the auction gave those who desired an opportunity to secure a sizable piece of land in the far southern part of the city, at a price reasonable for a poor man to pay.

The property was the plot between Coggeshall avenue and Almy's pond, with Ocean avenue as its southern boundary. It is land which Mr. Belmont purchased when he planned to surround "Belcourt" with broad acres and probably represented the expenditure of $25,000 or $30,000. Auctioneer F. W. Greene announced in opening that it would be sold without restrictions and without reserve.

The audience had gathered slowly and at 3 o'clock there were perhaps 40 present. The real estate agents with one exception were absent, the owners of large properties in that section of the city did not seem to be represented, and altogether it did not look like a representative gathering of buyers.

The entire plot, comprising nearly 9 acres, was offered first, but there was not a bid. At the end it was offered again as a whole, but no one would make a bid exceeding the total for the several parcels, $5,555.

With one exception the layout provided for large lots, from 35,000 to 45,000 square feet. There were eight of them, with a frontage of from 110 to 183 feet, on Coggeshall or Ocean avenues, and extending back between 300 and 400 feet to low-water at the pond, the rear ends being somewhat narrower than the front.

The most northern parcel was subdivided, making six lots 50 x 60 feet, fronting on a courtway 30 feet wide and extending toward the pond, with an unplotted area equal to the six lots, but not measured, to be given to the purchaser of the last lot.

The sale began with the large lot, No. 6, at the corner of Coggeshall and Ocean avenues; then went to the two to the westward, next returning and selling in reverse order up along Coggeshall avenue, and finally ending with the small lots.

The result of the auctioning in the order of procedure is as follows:

Lot No. 6—43,955 square feet, 183 feet front, to John B. Urquhardt, Representative Beeckman's gardener, for 2½ cents a foot—$1,098.88.

Lot No. 7—39,675 square feet, to Mr. Chase, at 1½ cents $595.13.

Lot No. 8—10,695 square feet, to John Mason, at 2 cents—$213.90.

Lots Nos. 5 and 4—34,830 and 34,198 square feet, Michael Carroll, for 2 cents—$696.60 and $683.80.

Lot No. 3—35,150 square feet, Margarette M. Sullivan, at 2 cents—$703.

Lot No. 2—35,615 square feet, sold by the lot rather than the foot, James Judd, gardener for Mrs. Belmont, for $350.

Lot No. 1—34,130 square feet, Miss Mary E. Hayes, for $325.

Smith lot No. 1, corner of Coggeshall avenue and the courtway—Thomas E. Morgan, for $50.

No. 2.—Miss Hayes, for $65.

Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6, carrying with them the unmeasured land, were put up as a whole and knocked down to Margaret M. Sullivan, for $136.

During the sale the auctioneer repeatedly illustrated how a street could be run through a given lot and thus give the opportunity to provide several desirable cottage sites. Whether Mrs. Belmont in selling the land had an idea that it would afford a desirable site for a large number of small cottages of moderate cost was not stated, but there certainly was a hint that working people might acquire land for their homes. The location seems a long way from the centre of the city and the street cars, yet its northern boundary adjoins the settlement line, where there are many houses which have been occupied for generations and where families have grown up and died: hence it is not so far out of the world as some might think.

CONCLUSION OF THE BRUEN SALE.

The second edition of the Bruen estate auction took place Saturday afternoon when a large crowd gathered on the grounds and received numbered tickets for the presents reserved for the second day's distribution. There was no land to sell, and so presents of the same sort as on the day before were given to the holders of tickets, and numbers were drawn. After this the gathering was invited to Melkle avenue, where Mr. Bonelli made the second effort of the day to sell the Cummings property. But one bid, for $3,000, was offered for the two-tenement house and the property was withdrawn.
